Madoff account # M-1M0100

11/9/09

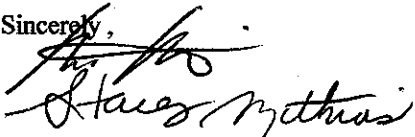

We are "OBJECTING CLAIMENTS" to the cash-in cash-out method of calculating your net worth of your account.

My wife and I are older Bernard Madoff investors. Our net worth as of Dec. 12- 2008 was around $1,300,000.00. We have worked very hard over the last 35 years to save our money to retire and be able to help our kids . My wife and I are in our late fifty's and had retired for only a few weeks when this devesting thing happed in Dec. of 2008. We both were self employed and spent a year shutting our business down. My wife went back to work as a realtor and at this time the market is very bad and not making much after her office expenses. I'm a Building Contractor and have had no work in the last year. Both our son's have lost their homes ,our older son lost his home,savings,wife and as of September lost his airline pilots job also. This has put great stress on us because we can no longer help them financially. I taught my kids to save your money , pay your bills and live with in your means, but when something like this happens what do you tell them.

It has been almost 1 year already and we are still waiting to hear something on our SIPC claim. It shouldn't be taking that long. Apparently SIPC was created in 1970 by Congress under the Securities Investor Protection Act to protect the interests of investors and to help bolster confidence in the integrity of the American securities markets. We can tell you as Americans right now our confidence in the system is not to great.

We trusted an investment company that was in business for over 40 years with the head Bernard Madoff being chairman of Nasdaq. If we ever though it was not a legitimate business we would not have given him our life savings. It was not that we were getting outrageous returns typically 8 to 11% per year. We don't believe that we as investors should be penalized for investing with a reputable company . The SEC failed to see the ponzi scheme on numerous occasions. We strongly disagree with the cash-in cash-out approach that the trustee is in favor of. If we wanted to take out money from our account we could have taken it. Instead of taking money out we put in over $300,000.00 in the last 5 years and $1,000,000.00 in inheritance money. The net worth as on our November 2008 statement should be what the account is worth today. For over 20 years we paid income tax to the IRS on this money. In our eyes, in the eyes of the government the money was and is real money. So how can the trustee all of a sudden come on board and say it's not real money?? Please we are begging you to see our hardship and rule in favor of all the Bernard Madoff victims old as well as new investors and rule in favor of the accounts net worth as of the December 12, 2008 amounts and not the cash-in cash-out method that the trustee is asking for.

Sincerely,

Michael and Stacey Mathias
